WELCOME HOMECOMERS

A MESSAGE OF GREETING FROM PRES. PAUL L. GARRETT

All of us at Western are happy to have the alumni, former students and friends of the college gather on College Heights for this 21st Homecoming celebration.

It is good for folks to come back to their college home. It is better I know for those who stay at Western to have you come back home, so our first wish for you is that you may find as much happiness while here as your visit brings to us. We hope that you may find here renewed inspiration, and that the fervor of your loyalty to a great college may be made even stronger by your visit.

We are grateful for the devotion and loyalty to Western which made you want to come back.

Immediately following the game, open house will be held in the dormitories, the Kentucky Building and the Cedar House. We sincerely hope that you may find time to enjoy an hour or so with your friends there.

We wish for each of you happiness and success in the year ahead and that today may be so pleasant that its memories will bring you back again next year.

PAUL L. GARRETT
Sincerely,
President

Western And Eastern Meet At Homecoming Again

Homecoming with Eastern's Maroons as the opponent on the gridiron—what memories such a combination revives! Shades of 1941 when the unbeaten Maroons came in as overwhelming favorites and left Bowling Green on the short end of a 27-20 score. This after leading 20-0 at halftime too.

Then there is that great game of 1948 when again Eastern came in for Homecoming as a definite favorite and left town wearing a 14-13 defeat.

Homecoming—the 20 previous games played on this day have been close and thrill-packed frays. Not a single game has ever been dull.

It would be hard to single out any one game and point to it as the top Homecoming tilt. However, that 1941 scrap will rank along with the best but not far behind will be the 1948 game.

Any of the 5,500 persons who jammed the Western Stadium on that sunny October 25th afternoon back in 1941 will never forget what a beaten team the Hilltoppers were when they went to dressing room at halftime. Trailing 20-0, they had literally been pushed out of the stadium. The gloom was deep among the Western supporters but the visiting Maroon fans were joyous. This joy was not for long, though.

In the short span of the third quarter the Hilltoppers had tied the score and were pushing the Maroons out of the stadium now. What a transformation! Gene Sparrow, Johnny Mazola, Joe Cullen, Lou Cullen, Dick Crouch and Bob Wilson simply refused to acknowledge defeat. Wilson added the final touch in the fourth quarter when he intercepted a desperate Maroon pass and raced 65 yards through the entire Eastern eleven for the winning marker.

Eastern, boasting a powerhouse in 1948, came back to Bowling Green to meet the underdog Hilltoppers on their Homecoming Day. This time it was a cool but sunny November afternoon which saw the Western Stadium jammed to capacity.

The Hilltoppers didn't let the Maroons get the jump on them this time. Jim Pickens got his slintshot right arm going and before the Maroons could get settled down "Slim Jim" had toosed two touchdown passes to Jewel Browning. Tom Montelli had his toe in tip top condition as he split the uprights perfectly to give the Hilltoppers a 14-0 half-time lead.

Eastern was not through, though. The Maroons had a great team and they showed it as they came storming back in similar fashion to the Hilltoppers of 1941. Twice they pushed across touchdowns in the third period but one try for extra point was missed and Western still held a slim one-point lead as the fourth quarter opened.

Here the Maroons opened up with a desperate passing attack which almost paid off. Had Jim Pickens not been the Western backfield picking Maroon aerals out of the air everytime the Eastern eleven threatened during that hectic fourth quarter, the story might have ended differently. But Pickens pulled down four potential Eastern touchdown tosses which broke the Maroons' spirit. The final blow came when Pickens took the ball away from an Eastern end as both fought for the pass on the Western goal. That interception put the game on ice for Western and sent the Maroons back to Richmond beaten again.

So today in this 1950 Homecoming tilt two ancient rivals meet again to renew a football rivalry begun back in 1914. Over the years the Hilltoppers and the Maroons have played each other 22 times. Western has emerged victorious 17 times and Eastern five times. The Hilltoppers piled up their victory skein over the Maroons before World War II. In the 18 meetings prior to the discontinuance of football at both schools because of the war in 1942, Western had won 16 times and Eastern twice.

Since the war when football was revived in 1946 at both schools Eastern has whipped the Hilltoppers three out of four games. Today the Hilltoppers will be out to continue the mastery over Eastern in Homecoming tilts and get started again on a long string of victories such as the mighty Western teams of the twenties and thirties were able to put together.

This game will certainly produce plenty of action and thrills, if it follows to any degree at all, the pace set in past Eastern-Western Homecoming tilts.
